

Who Grows Your Food?

Split Creek Farm • Anderson, SC

Split Creek Farm understands the public's hunger to reconnect with our rural agrarian roots, and is happy to fulfill that hunger. "We recognize," says Evin Evans, "that we have to be able to share our little part of the world if we want people to realize why it is important. The average American can not be asked to appreciate the huge contributions being made by small farms, if they never have the opportunity to set foot on one."

Bucking a trend toward "agri-tainment" activities like corn mazes and mechanical dinosaurs, Split Creek holds fast to the idea that people will visit a farm just to be able to look a goat in the eye and learn a little. And if you can't make it to the farm, enjoy Split Creek Farm's award-winning goat cheeses, cheese balls, goat milk soaps, and goat fudge at stores throughout the southeast.

Evin Evans

